

einem Leben geschnitzt haben könnte. Die Kopien/Fälschungen mögen aus seiner eigenen Werkstatt stammen oder von anderen und späteren Schnitzern angefertigt worden sein, die Diskussion ist weiterhin offen, entscheidend für den Wert eines Stücks ist alleine dessen Qualität. Raymond Bushell (Collector's Netsuke, 1971, p.22) fasst die Überlegungen zusammen, „if the netsuke is an early- or mid-eighteenth-century carving, if it is shaped by the artist rather than by the limitations of the material, if the subject, style, and treatment accord with early netsuke, and if it is superbly designed and carved, it may be a genuine Tomotada.“
